“I WILL SUFFER THROUGH THE BAD FOR THE HEIGHTS OF THE GOOD.” – PAT TILLMAN

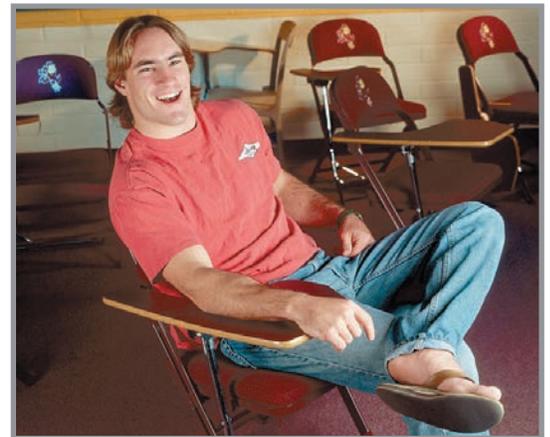

ONE MISSION. ONE COMMUNITY.

Pat's Run 2021, presented by TEKsystems, is the signature fundraiser for the Pat Tillman Foundation's Tillman Scholars program.

We may not be able to come together this year to take to the streets of Tempe in 2021, but we're still one community focused on one mission: uniting and empowering remarkable service members, veterans and military spouses to carry on Pat Tillman's legacy of scholarship, service, humble leadership and impact.

We're so happy that you're joining our virtual event on April 24, 2021 (although you can participate anytime between April 23 and April 25 for maximum flexibility).

Pat's story on the football field and the Army is well-known, but it is his principles and service that are his true legacy. Pat believed in something bigger than himself and dedicated his life to serving it – thank you for joining us in honoring that legacy.

PAT'S RUN

WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW FOR RACE DAY

RACE TEE, MEDAL & BIB

The 2021 Pat's Run race tee is a technical shirt inspired by Arizona State University's Desert Storm football uniforms, with a matching medal and bib showcasing this year's theme, "Give 'Em Hell." Pat famously quoted that line from the ASU fight song to his teammates shortly before they beat Nebraska 19-0 in 1996, and we find encouragement in it now: however impossible things seem, the tenacious fight through it and lead those around them to the other side.

T-shirts, medals and bibs began shipping in late March. If you registered before April 1, and you haven't received your materials by race day, please check the tracking information sent to you via email. If you registered after April 1, we can't guarantee that you'll receive your items before race day.

ABOUT THE PAT TILLMAN FOUNDATION

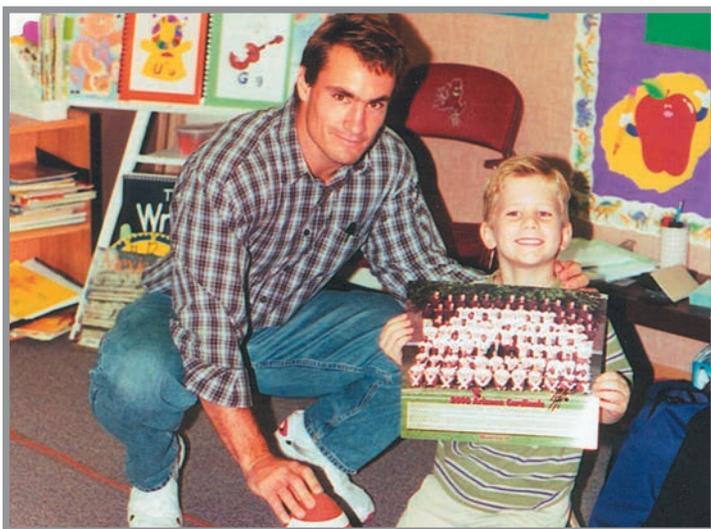

WHO WE ARE

In 2002, inspired by the Sept. 11 attacks, Pat Tillman turned down a $3 million NFL contract from the Arizona Cardinals to serve in the U.S. Army. Family and friends established the Pat Tillman Foundation following Pat's death in April 2004 while serving with the 75th Ranger Regiment in Afghanistan.

Pat's story on the football field and the Army is well-known, but it is his principles and service that are his true legacy. Pat believed in something bigger than himself; his selflessness, tenacity and passion continue to inspire people across the world.

The foundation carries his legacy forward through its mission of uniting and empowering a diverse community of remarkable military service members, veterans and spouses.

PAT TILLMAN  FOUNDATION

ABOUT THE TILLMAN SCHOLARS

The Pat Tillman Foundation selects remarkable service members, veterans and military spouses as they begin their next chapter as public and private sector leaders. Each year, we select up to 60 Tillman Scholars, helping to fund their education and give them access to lifelong leadership development and a global community of high-performing peers and mentors.

Tillman Scholars demonstrate extraordinary academic and leadership potential and a deep desire to create positive change through their work in the fields of medicine, law, business, policy, technology, education and the arts. The scholarship is not a gift; it's an investment in excellence and potential.

The Pat Tillman Foundation has invested more than $20 million in academic support since 2008, and has named nearly 700 Tillman Scholars at more than 166 academic institutions nationwide.

M.A., POLITICAL SCIENCE

THOMAS BISHOP

In Little Rock, on his 17th birthday, Thomas joined the U.S. Army as a combat engineer. In 2005, he joined the ROTC program at the University of Arkansas and after graduating as a distinguished military graduate, he branched engineer in the Army Reserves. In 2009 after graduating engineer basic leadership course, Thomas returned to the University of Arkansas to complete his master's degree in political science; at the end of his first semester his unit received orders for mobilization to Afghanistan.

As platoon leader, Thomas led and conducted over 150 missions, including joint operations with Marines, British and Afghan forces in Kandahar and Helmand provinces. His platoon had multiple engagements with enemy forces to include IED clearances, strikes and ground force. For his efforts, Thomas was awarded a Bronze Star and Combat Action Badge, among other honors in Afghanistan.

He then returned to the University of Arkansas to complete his M.A., later working as an associate research director for Media Matters for America, before returning to the Army as a project engineer with missions in the Netherlands, Germany, Korea and Central America. He also worked as an operations officer for USACE during Hurricanes Harvey, Irma and Maria. Recently, Thomas was granted admission into Harvard's Kennedy School to pursue an MPA and continue his service as a military strategist.

CANDICE CREECY

Candice grew up in a military family where a deep sense of service was portrayed daily by her father, an Air Force aircraft technician. Candice accepted a commission in the U.S. Marine Corps in 2005, earned her aviation "Wings of Gold" in 2008, and was designated a F/A-18 Weapon Systems Officer in 2010. In 2013, she founded Rise Above Seven Summits to raise awareness and support for the communities around the seven highest mountains on each of the seven continents.

Seeing the need for quality healthcare in remote and rural settings, Candice departed the active duty Marine Corps to attain a masters of medical science in physician assistant studies from Wake Forest School of Medicine. Recently, Candice completed the Mayo Clinic Emergency Medicine NP/PA Fellowship and will be beginning her MBA at the MIT Sloan School of Management with a biotechnology focus to continue finding novel methods to improve rural healthcare. Candice continues to serve in the U.S. Marine Corps Reserves as a Brigade Platoon Commander for 6th Air Naval Gunfire Liaison Company.

LEILANI ATTILO

Leilani served in the military to show gratitude for the country and people who welcomed and supported her parents, who emigrated from the Philippines. As an Army Nurse Corps officer, Leilani was a critical care nurse and deployed to Iraq and Afghanistan.

After leaving the military, Leilani became a public health nurse and found her passion working with underserved communities on drug policy, successfully lobbying for one of the most comprehensive drug overdose prevention laws and organizing one of the largest naloxone distribution programs in the country. But Leilani felt a call back to the clinical world when she recognized the stigma people who use drugs face in healthcare.

Leilani graduated from The George Washington University's Family Nurse Practitioner program. Leilani is now a family nurse practitioner who provides primary care and gender affirming care at a federally qualified health center in Tacoma, Washington.

MBA

KEVIN (& ELLIE) BUBOLZ

Driven to serve a greater purpose in life, Kevin enrolled in the ROTC and became an Army aviation officer. During his military career, he developed a passion for mentoring and developing others, pursuing this calling by becoming an instructor pilot and commanding the Army's only Chinook flight school.

During a deployment, Kevin's unit was accompanied by a service dog that brought comfort to soldiers, reduced loneliness and even flew in his helicopter wearing specialized hearing protection. This experience inspired Kevin to share the benefits of animal-assisted therapy to others, training his golden retriever, Ellie, as a therapy dog to volunteer in nursing homes, schools and hospitals.

As Kevin completes his MBA and moves to Virginia for a role with Microsoft, he and Ellie share their adventures and passion for impact and philanthropy on TikTok and Instagram and their website, goldenretrieverlife.com

RAISE A GLASS

Before enlisting in the Army, Pat would often ride his bike to the Rula Bula Irish Pub in Tempe, sit in the dining area and study his Cardinals playbook over a pint of Guinness. During his last visit to Rula Bula, Pat left his Imperial 20-oz Guinness glass with his ASU #42 engraving in its rightful place behind the bar with a promise to return. Even after Pat's death, his pint glass remains on the shelf of Rula Bula's back bar.

What's next for medical technology?

ASU innovation is key

Next is bringing life-changing devices to market, faster. Arizona State University is a part of WearTech, a center advancing products like a smart patch that quickly detects health problems and a device that relieves anxiety by using neuromodulation technology.

It's just one example of how ASU innovation and partnerships are fueling our economic future by creating new products, technologies and startups.
